

Customized Coaching

Are you thinking about doing something differently with your poverty alleviation efforts and want some objective support?

Let the wise hear and increase in learning, and the one who understands obtain guidance,

Proverbs 1:5 ESV

Each church is unique in its strengths and its challenges. You may have been thinking about ways to make a shift in a ministry or even in the church culture but aren't sure how to get started. To meet the needs of your specific church, solutions must be tailored to your culture, environment and current state. Through customized coaching, a knowledgeable, experienced pastor or community development leader will walk with you to discover a solution to your need. These coaches are people who can relate to your successes and your challenges and are paired with you based on your specific desired outcome. In addition to walking with you through problem solving, coaches also have access to a myriad of resources including best practices, case studies and statistical data that can benefit your planning processes.

Customized Coaching can help a church leader:

- Identify practical solutions, tailored to meet a specific need, through dialogue and information sharing.
- Make adjustments to a specific ministry in order to move from doing "to or for" participants to "doing with."
- Confidently implement a practical change tailored to your church environment and culture.

How It Works

1

A carefully selected coach engages with you short term (2 -4 hours over a 4 week period) to dialogue, reflect, and share about relational, holistic approaches to poverty alleviation within the context of the church need.

2

The coach will work directly with you, your team or your congregants, as appropriate, to address your specific need and areas of opportunity.

3

Your coach will share some best practices, examples, tools, and insights to help you move forward.
